Czech Nymph V

Special rods for different nymphing methods. We recommend using different sizes of rods for different situations and different size of fish. The 3100 rod is very fine and it is suitable for fish up to length of approximately 30 cm, the 4100 rod is optimal for middle-size rivers and for fish up to length of approximately 40 cm and the 5100 rod was constructed for big rivers and trophy fish from 50 cm, respectively. The 5100 rod is also suitable for fine fishing in still-waters, mainly for dry fly, loch-style fishing with wet flies for wild brown trout and for fishing with light nymphs just under the surface.

Barbless Hooks

Exceptional innovative design of our hooks incredibly increases efficiency of strike and landing of fish. This effect is reached by using HI Carbon steel and by the special shape of the hook finished with an extra-long needle point. Use of barbless hooks dramatically reduces damage to fish, it limits injury and shortens handling time caught fish.

Tungsten Beads

The heads of the nymphs play different roles during fishing, they attract fish by their flashes and colour, thanks to their weight they enable the nymphs to sink quickly to fishing zone and keep flies in the right position which is most effective.

Tungsten has a specific weight of 18 kg/dm<sup>3</sup>, which is nearly twice more than the lead. Therefore your flies can be slimmer and tinier, and more attractive for fish. Tungsten nymphs are absolutely essential for fishing in deep pools and fast streams.

Fluorocarbon Tippet 50 & 150 m

Fluorocarbon tippet HANÁK Competition thanks to its revolutionary attributes it is ideal for fishing for spooky fish. It is almost invisible in the water, it sinks quickly as it is two times heavier than water, doesn't lie on the surface and doesn't frighten fish. Fluorocarbon is denser, smoother and doesn't soak water and doesn't change its diameter and remains transparent. It is more durable and less elastic.

Proven top quality leader material in a cost-effective package 50 m and completely new solution - mega spool of 150 m suitable especially for stillwater fishing - limits memory of the tippet, lasts longer, is easier to find in your bag. Blue rubber band fix the tippet and prevents tangling in your pocket or bag.
