Superb RS Graphene River & Stillwater

New

A completely new series of four-piece ultra-light, slim, very fine and at the same time high-performance rods. Rods were designed, continuously tested and refined to perfection by Luboš Roza, one of the best current competition fly fishermen of the world (multiple World and European Champion) in close cooperation with František Hanák, expert of fishing for trophy fish.

This new range also includes special and highly requested models for dry-fly fishing designed in the uniform length 9.3 feet / 282 cm - Superb RS Dry Fly 393, 493 and 593.

Thanks to the use of the latest technologies including the revolutionary Hexagon Graphene material and extra light and super quality components we reduced the weight of these rods by about 30 % (up to 30 g) compared to conventional rods. Exclusive reel seat with an exotic wood insert. Highest quality AAAA cork. Slight deviation from conventional lengths follows the global trend of using slightly longer rods while maintaining maximum performance of these models.

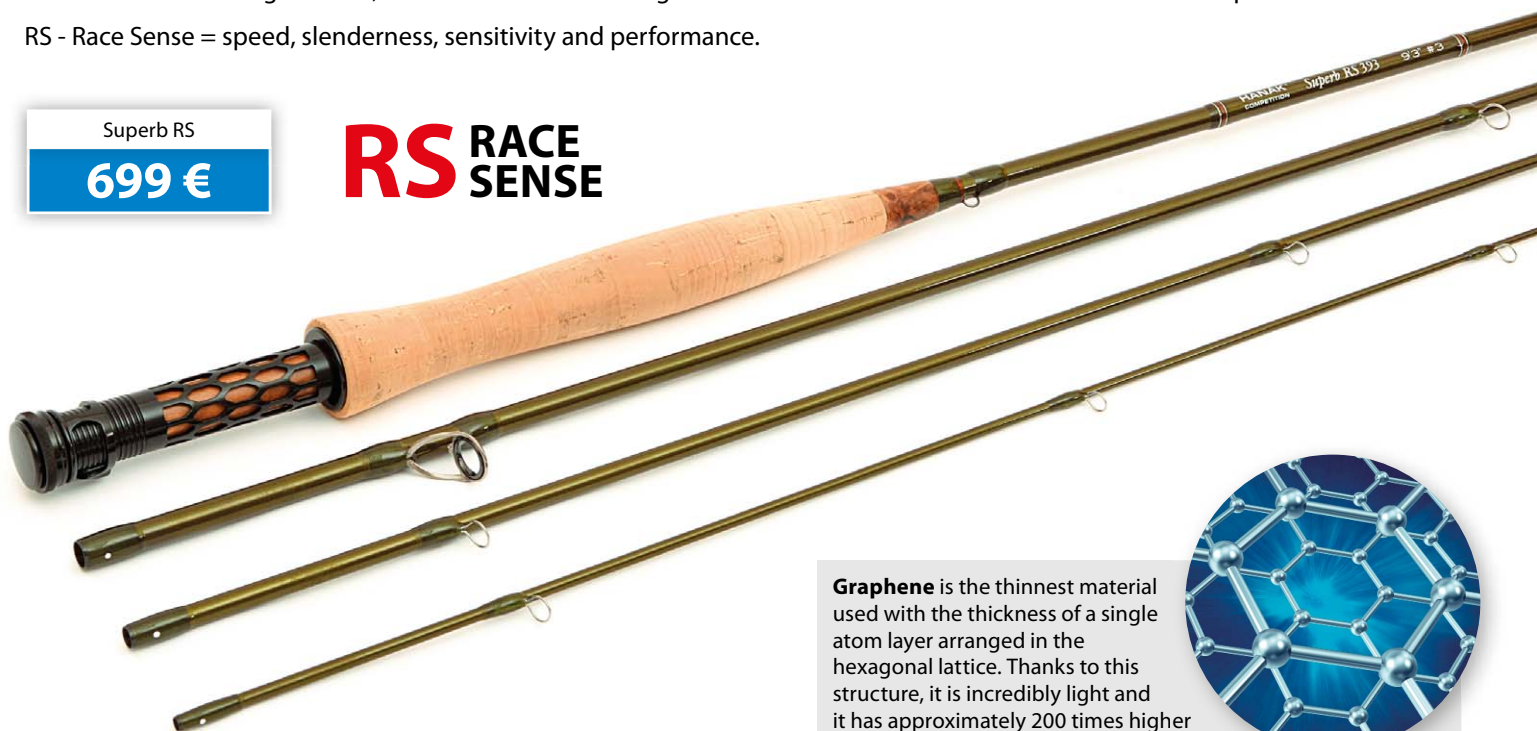

Blank of these rods is gold olive, black reel seat with hexagon cutouts holes to imitate the structure of the Graphene material.

The development of the Superb RS series began 10 years ago with the successful testing of the Superlight models during our victory at the Norwegian Open Championships 2012 and subsequently at the World Championships held also in Norway in 2013. The next step was currently very successful and popular model Superb XP and now after three years of intensive development and rigorous testing is coming Superb RS Graphene! Luboš Roza was responsible for the development of the River edition of the Superb RS Graphene series (AFTMA models # 2 and # 3) and Stillwater 698 and 798, while František Hanák focused on the development of the Graphene Trophy series (AFTMA models # 4 and # 5).

Superb RS 35 New

Ultra modern all-metal extra-large-arbor reel made of aviation aluminium alloy in combination with elements made of stainless steel. Exclusive H-design commemorates the 25th anniversary of the founding of our company HANÁK Competition, while the hexagon pattern of turned holes refers to the structure of the Graphene, the latest top material used for building of our new Superb RS rods. The large diameter of the spool reduces tangling of the leader and line and reduces their wear and speeds up winding. Precisely manufactured closed cage prevents the long thin nymphing rigs to be pulled out. Smooth running is ensured by a one-way roller super bearing.

Unrivalled sensitive and precisely adjustable carbon drag allows safe use of fine tippets.

The reel was designed, continuously tested and fine-tuned by Luboš Roza, one of the best current competition fly fishermen of the World in close cooperation with František Hanák, expert of fishing for trophy fish.

Rod size selection according to the average size of target fish on rivers

The reason I am writing this brief universal tutorial about the selection of rods weight to suit both conditions and size of targeted fish, is due to the amount of people asking me the same question over and over again: "What #3 weight rod do you recommend for targeting trophy rainbow and marble trout?"

The answer is easy – NONE!

Here is my recommendation:

Target fish up to 30 cm - rod weight AFTMA #2

Target fish 30–40 cm - rod weight AFTMA #3

Target fish 40–50 cm - rod weight AFTMA #4

Target fish over 50 cm - rod weight AFTMA #5

Of course, even with a 3 weight rod you can tame a trophy sized fish over 60 cm, but in the process you will overload the rod (which can snap the rod). However, by prolonging the fight you can over play the fish which could lead to exhaustion and significantly decrease its chance of survival when released. Important factors for selection of rods are also the species of target fish, strength of the current and diversity of the river bed. It is also necessary to choose appropriate strength of tippet and hook size. An exception to the rule with a completely different approach is competition fly fishing. With their experience and skills, top competitors can normally get a trophy fish in the net before it even knows its been hooked!

Rod lengths usually depends on the technique used, power of flow and how much room you have for casting and playing the fish.

Streamer - mostly 275 cm / 9 ft

Dry fly - 275 cm / 9 ft and possibly in large rivers 290 cm / 9,6 ft

Wet fly - mostly 290 cm / 9.6 ft and smaller streams even 275 cm / 9 ft

Nymphing - mostly 305 cm / 10 ft, according to conditions 275–335 cm / 9–11 ft

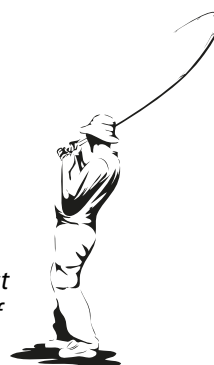

I wish you many wonderful experiences out on the water, and please, keep in mind, that if you catch a fish you don't want to be the last person that gets to release it back into its watery home!

Superb XP 13 & 35

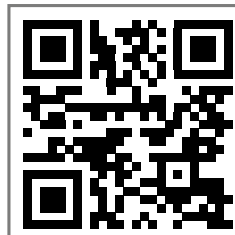

Improved matt olive model of our famous Superb reel fits the design of our new range of rods Superb XP. Modern ultra-large arbor reel is produced by machine-cut 6061-grade air-aluminium bar stock in combination with stainless steel. Thanks to the large arbor design, it limits tangling, damaging of fly line and speed-up reeling. The unique closed cage prevents tangling and dragging fine long nymphing leaders out of the reel. Smooth function is guaranteed by two ball-bearings in combination with a super-roller bearing. The sensitive and reliable drag allows usage of fine leaders.

Streamer MAXX WF6F/S - 200 grains

The new special fly line for streamer fishing is characterised by the use of the finely braided non-stretch core. This helps to achieve precise presentation of flies and also increases the hook up ratio. The fly line consists of three sections - olive floating running line with a super smooth finish which causes less friction when running through the guides, increasing your casting distance, 3 m long green intermediate head and 5 m long black fast sinking tip. Those three parts with different weights ensure that the line stays level as it sinks, giving you direct contact with the flies. Teflon and other special additives ensure that the line stays usable even in the coldest conditions. Both ends of the fly line are finished with micro-loops to ensure a strong and easy connection with both the backing and leader.

Tungsten beads

The heads of the nymphs play different roles during fishing, they attract fish by their flashes and colours, thanks to their weight they enable the nymphs to sink quickly to the fishing zone and keeps flies in the correct position, where are the most effective.

Tungsten has a specific weight of 18 kg/dm³, which is nearly twice as much as lead. Therefore, your flies can be significantly smaller and slimmer while maintaining the same weight, and thus much more attractive to fish. Tungsten nymphs are absolutely essential for fishing in deep pools and fast streams.

Fluorocarbon

New

HANÁK Competition fluorocarbon tippet is ideal for fishing for spooky fish thanks to its revolutionary attributes. It is almost invisible in the water, it sinks quickly as it is two times heavier than water, it doesn't stay lying on the surface and spook the fish. Fluorocarbon is denser, smoother and does not soak up water and does not change its diameter and remains transparent. It is more durable and less elastic.

Proven top quality leader material in a cost-effective package. A blue rubber band prevents the tippet from tangling in your pocket or bag. The spools can be connected to each other.

Reels

Reels must be always gently cleaned and naturally dried after fishing to keep their usage reliable and almost maintenance-free. Reels must be protected from sand, mud, intense heat, frost and impacts. Do not immerse reels needlessly in to water, especially not in to muddy water. Reels must be transported and stored in the protective packaging and in a dry place. For a longer storage, release the brake completely.

Reels are already professionally lubricated at the factory. During the warranty period, it is not permitted any unprofessional disassembly, repair or modification. This could cause loss of warranty and usually also loss of several components of the reel. For an intensive use we recommend to gently apply 1–2 drops of a special lubricating oil (eg. Loon Reel Lube) mainly to the one-way bearing once a year preferably. Improper lubricating oil or grease, or excessive unprofessional lubrication can damage the reel.

All our reels are designed exclusively for the freshwater use.

Always contact our professional service for warranty and post-warranty service and repairs including professional cleaning and lubrication.

Rods

When assembling the rods, pay attention to the cleanliness of the connected parts (carefully remove any impurities) and push the parts together with an adequate pressure in the guides axis. For the multi-part rods, start at the tip and continue gradually to the handle. During fishing, check the fitting of the individual parts in the clutches, which can slacken during the casting and subsequently damage (destroy) both ends.

Use only the recommended fly lines of the appropriate AFTMA and do not overload the rod (see page 29). When packing the rod, release the individual parts of it by pulling in the axis of the guides. It is always necessary to gently clean the rods and let them dry naturally after fishing. Protect rods from sand, mud, intense heat, frost and impacts. Do not immerse rods needlessly in to water, especially not in to muddy water.

Always transport or store rods in a protective packaging and in a dry place. All our rods are made of graphite, ie there are electrically conductive, so do not handle them during thunderstorms or near power lines - fatal injuries can occur!

Always contact our professional service for warranty and post-warranty service and repairs.
